Women to take centre stage in Zrenjanin

England's Lisa Whiteside

After the success of the London 2012 Olympic Games, 2013 promises to see the popularity of women's boxing skyrocket and in Zrenjanin, Serbia, we will be able to catch a first glimpse of the talent of tomorrow as the best youth, junior and elite fighters from the region battle it out for honours in one of the first tournaments of the year. AIBA helped launch this event back in 2011 and with the Junior/Youth World Championships set to take place later this year, this competition will be seen as ideal preparation by many National Federations. Fifteen nations will be competing in the event which begins Wednesday 9 January with many non-European nations set to participate.

Kazakhstan will be sending the biggest squad to the competition, with 26 women fighters set to compete. Their biggest name will no doubt be AIBA Women's World Championships silver medallist Yulduz Mamatkulova. National Champion Firuza Sharipova will be another good shout for a podium finish. Strong teenagers, Amina Abdrembayeva, Zukhra Yeltayeva and Assem Kuandyk know their way around the event so could make a big impact.

Host nation Serbia will have a 24 strong delegation on home soil, including experienced national team members Nina Stojanovic and the talented Bojana Ranic. Former European Junior Champion Marija Pavlov, Tamara Miloradovic and AIBA Women's Junior World Championships bronze medallist Milena Matovic are their best hopes in the youth competition.

The Russian squad also contains a high number of talented boxers, with the national head coach involving two-time Junior National Champion Katalina Rotar, Viktoriya Lobacheva and Yelena Khadzhi as well. Nikhat Zareen and Lalenkawli of India both claimed gold medals at the 2011 AIBA Women's Junior World Championships in Antalya and having moved up to the youth level, they have strong expectations in Zrenjanin.

England's AIBA Women's World Championships bronze medallist Lisa Whiteside will also want to start the new year in style and considering she still has relatively little international experience despite her success in China last year, this tournament in Serbia will be great preparation for the year ahead. EU Champion Bianka Nagy and AIBA Women's World Championships quarter-finalist 17-year-old Petra Szatmari who was awarded the best boxer trophy in their nationals last month will be Hungary's best weapons for honours.

Poland's former European Youth Champion Lidia Fidura, Slovenia's titleholder Mateja Rajteric, and Netherlands' 16-year-old AIBA Women's Junior World Championships bronze medallist Alicia Holsken are just a few of the others that need to be closely watched. It is expected that 50 elite, 49 youths and 25 junior athletes will be competing.

Nations Cup Serbia: Elite draw review

England's Lisa Whiteside

The first international competition of the year, the Nations Cup, saw women at elite, youth and junior level all shine in the Serbian city of Zrenjanin. The host nation and Bulgaria both claimed two gold medals at the elite level whilst other nations such as England, Russia, Hungary, Netherlands and Kazakhstan all showcased some top talent. Here we examine the achievements of the women in the elite draw.

Former European Championships silver medallist Sevda Asenova claimed Bulgaria's first gold medal after the experienced Light Flyweight (46-49kg) eliminated Slovenian titleholder Mateja Rajteric in the semis before defeating Poland's Anzelika Gronska 4:2 in final. Asenova's compatriot, European Championships bronze medallist and EU Champion Stoyka Petrova triumphed at Flyweight (51kg) with the 27-year-old simply too strong for Russia's Galina Chungalakova in the gold medal contest.

Serbia's teenage hope and European Women's Youth Championships competitor Milanka Tadic caused a big surprise when she defeated Russia's Yelena Khadzhi in the final of the Bantamweight (56kg) category. The 18-year-old, making her debut at the elite level, won each of the four rounds to inflict a heavy loss on her rival 13:3; she is now definitely one to watch out for. The host nation's second gold medal was achieved by Marija Stojanovic after she triumphed against Kazakhstan's teenager Assem Kuandyk 10:8 to defend her crown.

England's AIBA Women's World Championships bronze medallist Lisa Whiteside continues to impress at this level, looking irrepressible in the semis against Slovenia's Andreja Bester before powering past one of Croatia's finest Annamarija Vujaklija in the final to claim the gold.

In the Olympic Lightweight (51kg) category, Russian National Championships bronze medallist Natalya Shadrina secured her first major victory at international level, advancing to the final in style to defeat Kazakhstan's 18-year-old Firuza Sharipova.

Hungary's 23-year-old EU Champion Blanka Nagy, who went down a weight class before this tournament, proved she had no problem adapting as she overcame the challenge of Serbia's Teodora Manic to get her hands on the Light Welterweight (64kg) title.

One of the best finals was the one between Netherlands' European Championships silver medallist Nouchka Fontijn and Hungary's two-time AIBA Women's World Championships bronze medallist Timea Nagy. Fontijn was on fire in this one, dominating early on before showing her top quality defences in the closing stages to win Middleweight (75kg) final 9:4.

Kazakhstan's AIBA Women's World Championships silver medallist Yulduz Mamatkulova outpointed Croatia's European Championships bronze medallist Danijela Vernic in the semi-final stage of the event and after that the Super Heavyweight (91+kg) star won the gold by dominating Serbia's Enoke Halas.

The elite athletes impressed in Serbia and tomorrow we review the youth and junior draws of this fantastic tournament.

Nations Cup Serbia: Youth and Junior draw review

Serbia's Marija Pavlov

After having reviewed the elite competition at the women's Nations Cup in Zrenjanin, we will now recap the events in the youth and junior competition. With the 2nd edition of the AIBA Women's Youth and Junior World Championships scheduled for later this year, this tournament was seen as ideal preparation for the fledgling young athletes who will see glory on the international stage.

The host nation's top youth boxer and biggest hope for the Rio 2016 Olympic Games, 18-year-old European Junior Champion Marija Pavlov, who has already claimed a several high profile trophies at international level, was a class above the competition in the youth Lightweight (60kg) draw. The Serbian boxer was sublime in triumphing over Kazakhstan's Ulbala Almenova 22:2 in the final, which resulted in her being awarded the best boxer trophy.

Milena Matovic, a recent AIBA Women's Junior World Championships bronze medallist, continued the host nation's winning ways after controlling her bout against Kazakhstan's 17-year-old Khayrutdinov Tournament silver medallist Valentina Khalzova to record a stunning victory at Light Heavyweight (81kg).

In the Olympic youth Flyweight (51kg) class, England's 16-year-old European Junior Champion Crystal Barker defeated all before, with a stunning victory over India's Junior National Champion Lalruatfeli paving the way for a final showdown with Kazakhstan's Sevara Tadzhiikulova, whom she overpowered 7:2 to claim the gold medal in style.

At Middleweight (75kg), Russian Junior National Champion Anastasiya Shamsutdinova and Kazakhstan's strong Anastasiya Rylina put on a world class battle for the fans in Zrenjanin. Shamsutdinova began well but Rylina come back strong to level the scores after four rounds. In the end, Shamsutdinova had done enough to take victory on count-back with the scores tied at 15:15.

Kazakhstan's top youth Light Flyweight (46-49kg), Alua Balkybekova, stopped India's AIBA Junior World Champion Lalenkawli in the semis before defeating Russia's Kseniya Naumenko in the final. The 17-year-old Central Asian hope proved that she is a gold medal contender in the forthcoming AIBA Women's Youth World Championships.

AIBA Women's Junior World Championships bronze medallist Alicia Holsken from the Netherlands only lost one contest in 2012, winning four international tournaments as a junior boxer during that time. After that she moved up to youth level and added the Nations Cup gold to her trophy collection after beating India's AIBA Junior World Champion Nikhat Zareen 10:4 in the final.

In the junior competition, Slovenia's Ema Kozin alerted everyone to her enormous potential after overcoming the odds and triumphing over India's rising star Lovlina Borgohain 6:5 at 70kg. India's new Light Flyweight sensation, 15-year-old Asha Roka, had previously outpointed and shocked her rival from Kazakhstan to claim the title.

National Junior Champion Assyl Askarova from Kazakhstan and Russia's Yelizaveta Nembova were also big winners in Zrenjanin and will be two to keep an eye out for at AIBA Women's Junior/Youth World Championships later this year. These talented female boxers who were born in 1996 and 1997 will also be able to compete also in the Nanjing 2014 Youth Olympic Games, should they qualify. There are big times ahead for these boxers.
